Okinawa, April 22.

My darling:

Must get this in the mail, or you will turn into a worry bug right. The way things have been going we should get mail in 10 to 12 days, which is not bad, considering.

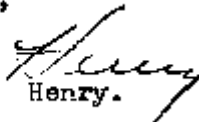

Have been very very busy days and every evening about the time I set up a Coleman lantern and start to write something, the Nips come over and raise a bit of hell with us. Am getting damn tired of spending most of the night sitting in a dugout.. but c'est la guerre or however you spell it. We get plenty chow but no sleep. Am feeling O.K. however, which is something, considering the sleepless nights and terrific strain. I have the world's record for foxhole diving.

May go out to one of the ships tonight and get cleaned up... if so will write you further. All my love darling... oh god what home means when you get in the turmoil and confusion of a place like this.

Enclosure for Henry Kaye... hope he likes it. I love you dear.

Your own,
Henry

Your own,

Henry.
